Flowchart

1. Introduction

How to establish which Harassment policy applies

This policy applies where staff or service users experience harassment or alleged harassment from a third party i.e. a person that is not a member of staff. Harassment of staff by staff is covered by the Trust Bullying and Harassment Policy.

The Flow chart on page 4 provides an easy reference to ensure that the correct policy is applied. This table also references the reporting and recording systems that apply.

Sheffield Health and Social Care NHS Foundation Trust (SHSC) believe that:

- Service Users have a right to expect to receive care and treatment in a way that feels safe and dignified without experiencing harassment due to, Race, Disability, Sex, Gender Reassignment, Sexual Orientation, Age or their Religion or Belief.
- That Trust staff and volunteers have the right to go about their duties without experiencing similar harassment, and
- Anyone visiting or providing services on Trust premises has a right to feel safe and respected and equally not experience harassment.

The Equality Act 2010 protects staff, as employees, from harassment and service users when service users are receiving a service. This means that harassment from employers or harassment of service users by service providers is unlawful; but there is no specific part of the Act that is in force that directly relates to harassment of staff or service users by service users or members of the public.

Despite this it is the policy of the Trust to recognise that harassment of staff or service users by others has an impact on staff and other service users and the Trust will do all that it can to take account of this impact and take appropriate action where it is possible to do so.

- 2.1. This policy relates to Harassment as defined in the Equality Act 2010.
- 2.2. The policy takes account of the relevance of Hate Crime and Hate Incident reporting

- 3.3. The policy sets out the action that the Trust will take aimed at reducing instances of harassment.
- 3.4. The policy sets out the action that the Trust will take with the aim of responding to instances of harassment not covered by the workforce Bullying and Harassment Policy.

4. Definitions

4.1. Harassment

- A person also harasses another person if they engage in unwanted conduct of a sexual nature, and the conduct has the purpose or effect of violating that person's dignity, or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for that person.

Appendix B - Reporting Hate Crimes and Hate Incidents

If a decision is made that an incident needs to be reported there are two options. It may be a Hate Crime in which case the police will investigate this as a hate crime, or it may be a hate incident in this case a person can have the incident recorded but it will not be investigated as a crime by the police.

Hate Crime

A hate crime can be defined as any criminal offence motivated by the hostility or prejudice of the perpetrator, based upon one or more identifying factors which may be real or perceived. Identifying factors include (but are not limited to) disability, race, religion or belief, sexual orientation, transgender.

Non-Crime Hate Incident

Sometimes, a victim or witness may perceive that an action against them was motivated by the hostility and prejudice of the perpetrator, based one or more of the identifying factors referred to above, though no criminal offence has been committed. When an incident of this nature is reported to South Yorkshire Police, it will be recorded as a 'non-crime hate incident'.

Reporting a Hate Crime or a

it.org.uk/your_police_force)

it.org.uk/your_police_force

Hate Crime and Hate Incidents can be reported straight to South Yorkshire police or through a reporting centre. Reporting centres have been set up so that victims can access support from a source that is not the police. Hate crimes can only be investigated by the police and the police record hate incidents however reporting centres can help with this.

Porterbrook Clinic is a Reporting Centre and the Trust aims to establish a central reporting center in 2019.

A protocol will be developed by the trust once the details of this initiative have been finalised.
